

APPARATUS AND METHOD FOR MANAGING COMMUNICATION DEVICES

Abstract of Disclosure

A management apparatus for managing a communication device has an identifying table storing unit for storing an identifying table with an identifying condition for determining a type of an identified communication device that satisfies the identifying condition. The identifying condition corresponds to a check method for determining a function of the identified communication device. An identifying unit determines whether the communication device satisfies the identifying condition, and a check unit determines the function of the identified communication device by using the check method corresponding to the identifying condition.